TYPE: MACE
RARITY: VERY RARE

This peculiar mace is made from the well laid bricks of an old chimney that have been ripped from their usual emplacement and fashioned to a cage and soot covered wooden handle. The end of this odd chimney structure constantly belches a blackened smoke that dissipates almost immediately upon exiting the weapon. The pommel of this mace resembles a small roofed cottage, perhaps a reference to where the bricks themselves were pulled from. You have a +2 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this weapon.

You can use a bonus action to cause the fire in the chimney to rise or fall. When the fire is high, this weapon provides bright light in a 20-foot radius and dim light for an additional 20 feet. When the fire is low, it emits no light.

Three times per day, you can use an action to wave this mace in the air causing a thick black smoke to belch forth from it. The smoke fills a 30 foot radius sphere around you. When you take this action, you can designate up to 4 creatures, including yourself, that can see through the smoke. The area becomes heavily obscured to creatures you have not designated. The smoke spreads around corners and persists for 1 minute before dissipating. Uses of this ability reset daily at dawn.
