

Quickie

by Pandoza

"Urgh, I can't take it anymore..." Jenny mumbled to herself. It had barely been five minutes since she had burst out of her office building and found herself flailing in the rubble of the formerly thirty story office block. As soon as she stood up and dusted herself off the new perspective had done something to her, she'd never been more horny in her life. It was just like there was a pulsing magnet in her panties, drawing her hand in, begging to be touched. She hitched up her skirt and slid her hand downwards, at first pushing against the gusset of her lace knickers, She could feel how wet she was.

"Ughhhnn..." She moaned, there was something else there too. Something squirming. "How did you get down there?" A jolt ran through her crotch. There was a little woman down there, a little woman had slipped into her panties. "Mind if I join you?" Jenny said with a crooked grin, slipping her fingers down and tickling her clit as she pushed them deeper, grabbing onto her labia, and spreading them wide. "I think you should be in there." She said, trying to coax the tiny woman down with her thumb.

That was when she caught sight of two figures literally holding onto her sweater to prevent themselves from falling hundreds of feet to the ground below. A man and a woman.. the woman was sliding down her front and had just been caught by the folds of the stretchy fabric over her breasts, and the little man was clinging on, pulling himself up against her swollen nipple. It was so erect that he was literally able to hold onto it through her jumper. She moaned again and her legs started to shake. She was cumming already! Her eyes rolled back in her head and gasped at the release.