

Okay, so here's my idea. I was thinking about what if instead of being a werewolf, they were instead a werefatty. The story follows a college student who has a strange curse that runs through their family's bloodline, that makes the person become fat on a full moon. Except that the main character actually has a fetish for that sort of thing, so she likes it. It starts with her rushing home from a night class, having to take an exam during the full moon. She begins to outgrow her clothes as she gets back home, buttons popping and jeans slowly tearing (she'll start out a bit on the chubby side before the transformation begins so maybe around 165 or so). She's made preparations ahead of time, loading her kitchen up with junk food, deciding that one night a month isn't enough and she wants to take the opportunity to gain real weight permanently. She bakes cookies and brownies and stuffs herself with cake as she gets fatter and fatter, masturbating along the way as her clothes are completely destroyed as she grows more sensitive, excited, and sexually powerful. Once she reaches about 350, she slips into a large bikini that she had been waiting to get big enough to fit into, and goes outside in the pool and hot tub. She masturbates in the hot tub as she fills out the swimsuit more, making it tighter and tighter until finally she overwhelms the fabrics capacity for stretching entirely leaving her naked after gaining about another 200 lbs. By this point she's so sensitive and excited that she can get off just from her fat jiggling. She walks around in the yard and swims in the pool for a bit, groping her fat and maximising her jiggle as much as she as she puts on another 100 (leaving her around 650 ish), getting off over and over without really needing to touch herself down there at all (although she certainly can and does, she just doesn't need to) Wanting to settle in for the night before she gets too big to fit in her bedroom, she retreats, revelling in the sensations of her body as she heads to her bedroom. She gets out a rider sybian rider vibrator and mounts it, getting off endlessly as she rides it mercilessly for 4 hours, putting on another 200 lbs. in the process. She lays on the bed quite winded afterwards, satisfied but realising there are still many many more hours left until sunrise, and that she doesn't want to waste the remaining time of her transformation. She decides she needs to take gaining the weight permanently more seriously so that she can have this kind of fun every night and how much more fun this would be if she got a boyfriend who was into bigger women that she could share it with. She then proceeds to lie back in bed relaxing, pulling out some vibrators and other toys from her night stand next to the bed before using them on herself and continuing until sunrise.

A few more details for setting and stylistic approach if it helps. The idea for the house is that she's kind of a trust fund brat in a sense. It's a rather nice suburban home that you would see in a gated community with a huge stylish kitchen, lots of rooms and modern decorations, and a yard with a deck pool and hot tub and a fence that covers the entire yard for privacy. Basically, her parents are giving her the place to keep anyone from finding out about the curse. That and they're just rich. Second, I'm envisioning this being something that she's going to spend the whole night on, so the change generally speaking occurs gradually. There can be certain points where the changes happen faster, whenever it's erotically useful or serves storytelling or stylistic purposes. But the idea is that she's basically enjoying herself for hours and hours on end as she keeps getting fatter and fatter. The last point I want to emphasise is just how wildly multi orgasmic and sensitive she should be. This is a crazy huge fetish for her, and the process drives her completely nuts sexually every minute of it, not to mention the physical enhancements that up her sensitivity and sexual excitement even further. She should be portrayed as being over the moon and having the time of her life.

