

(Warning: This story contains female muscle, female muscle growth, and graphic sexual content)

Millie had been positively giddy the entire trip to Wrath. Even before they left Pride, she was vibrating with uncontrollable excitement. Her eyes were wide and full of unending joy, biting her lower lip to hold back the squeal that threatened to burst.

She clutched the red envelope in her hands so tightly she wrinkled the paper as she did a little dance with her shoulders. All the while, her husband watched her with plenty of amusement in his loving eyes.

“You look like you’re about to explode with happiness.”

“Can’t help it, hun! Didn’t sleep a wink all night!”

Moxxie drawled to the side. “Yeah, I’m aware...”

“I can’t believe they invited me! ME!” She giggled almost deliriously as she clenched the envelope close to her chest.

In her hands was possibly the single greatest honor a wrathian imp could receive in their lives. An invitation for the Wrathian Sun Tournament. A celebration of strength and toughness hosted every fifty years by the great Sin of Wrath himself, Satan, creator of impkind.

Their lord and master would send these invitations to imps who distinguished themselves through sheer fighting prowess. The methods by which the great Sin knew were not all too understood; perhaps he went on rumors and investigated them, or perhaps it was an inherent intuition for a being as powerful as him.

A competition that would see some of the best fighters in the Ring elevated to the ranks of legends. Rewarded by Satan himself to be more than servants of the Rings, to be champions and commanders in the legions. It was the dream of every wrathian kid to be chosen...

When Millie got her envelope delivered by a Reaper just a few days ago, her scream of joy shattered windows.

She, who once struggled to make a name for herself as a merc in Wrath, was now chosen to participate in the grandest competition.

She, of course, took Moxxie with her; the games would be hosted at the furthest edges of Wrath, where even the most hardboiled wrathian-born imps would hesitate to travel alone. A place fraught with danger and all manner of monsters, the ideal scenario for the Wrathian Sun to be hosted.

The train reached its destination, and Millie jumped out of her seat to stare in marvel at the small village Great Satan had literally raised with his own power. Rustic, almost spartan in terms of aesthetics. At least a few hundred imps would be staying in the village to watch the competitions in person. The streets were filled with tough wrath-stock demons, old scarred veterans, and youths with plenty of attitude and spirit. The long stretch of the main street led to a large coliseum where the tournament would take place.

“Unholy cow, look at this, Mox!” She excitedly waved at the village. “Can you believe this place didn’t even exist until a few days ago?”

“Lord Satan’s power sure is something.” Her husband didn’t even question why destroy and recreate this place every fifty years instead of keeping it around. But for a Sin of Satan’s power? It was a piece of cake. “Now, where exactly is our hotel...?” He looked over a billboard with the town’s map, trying to recall the right address.

His wife was more focused on the large gathering of imps, knowing many of them were fighters. But only a select few would participate in the tournament, “I wonder how many people here are aspirants,” Millie said in wonderment at the prospect of testing her mettle. “I’m gonna give them a show they’ll never forget.”

“Oh, I’m sure you will.”

The sudden intrusion made Millie’s smile crumble like a house of cards, replaced with a frown and dark growl building from her throat. She turned around, glaring with her blazing yellow eyes at a woman who was leaning against a building. Her horns were short and stubby, her skin a dark red. She wore her long black hair in dreads pulled into a ponytail. She was a bit taller than the average imp woman, at least half a head taller than Millie herself. She wore denim jeans and a tattered dark vest over a sleeveless shirt, showcasing two pretty toned arms.

The way she smiled at Millie did not convey any sense of friendliness. It was a gesture filled with smug mockery.

Her next words conveyed it properly: “Everyone’s gonna see that poor circus act you call fighting and laugh so hard they’ll piss themselves.” She spoke with the same wrathian drawl as Millie.

“Drona,” Millie growled with spite. “Ain’t you a fucking sight...”

The now named imp woman approached her with her thumbs hooked inside her jeans’ pockets. “Millie, darling, been so long.” She smiled down at her. “Heard you left Wrath after you couldn’t make it as a merc.” Drona’s grin stretched until she showed her teeth. “Can’t say I’m surprised, you always had to scrap the bottom of the barrel to find work.”

“You are the one who kept poaching my targets AND my clients.”

“Honey, reputation is everything. Ain’t my fault you kept fucking up your jobs.”

“You sabotaged half my jobs!”

“You wrecked my family’s farm!”

“After you burned down our barn!”

“Which I did because you stole Marky from me!”

“He came on to me! Ain’t my fault he had taste, you hag!”

The two were practically grinding their foreheads together, smoke coming from the sheer friction. Each word was laced with untold fury. All the while, Moxxie could only hopelessly watch.

“Um,” He cleared his throat. “Is this a friend of yours, honey?”

“Moxxie, this is Drona.” Millie introduced them without taking her eyes off her, the two still butting heads. “Some bitch I’ve known since high school. Drona, this is my husband, Moxxie.”

“Yeah, hi. How you doing?” She waved at him without looking. “So what brings a has-been like you here?”

Millie’s grin became savage as she showed her the red envelope. “Guess who got chosen, bitch?”

“Oh, you got an invite?” Instead of balking in shock, Drona brandished her own red invitation. “So did I.”

Their standoff only became more intense with the knowledge that the two would be competing against each other, teeth bared and lips trembling with a growl.

“Oh, this is gonna be fun.” Millie grinned. “All of Wrath will know I beat your ass.”

“Oh, I know how much you wanna beat this ass,” Drona smacked her rear in response. “I know how much you stared at it, always looking but never brave enough to touch~.”

“I’m will fucking end you,” The smaller imp promised. “Gonna wreck you so bad.”

“Oh yeah, you gonna give it to me hard?” Drona darkly chuckled. “I’m gonna make you beg.”

“You’re gonna be screaming my name.”

“You’re gonna be all under me, where you belong.”

Moxxie’s eyes switched back and forth between the two, growing oddly aroused the longer this went.

The ‘moment’ was interrupted by a loud trumpet sounded by a flying reaper. A signal all the people in town knew very well, it seems, as they quickly began walking to the coliseum.

“...See you at the ceremony, Millie.” She winked at her and walked off with a noticeable saunter of her hips. “And yes, my ass is still amazing.” She smacked it one last time for show as she disappeared amongst the crowd.

Millie’s fists trembled with impotent rage. “Fuck, she’s right. Still the best ass in Wrath...”

“You don’t get along, I gather.”

“Oh, we’ve always fought, ever since school. Damn bitch always made my life impossible. Ruining my dates, my social life, my work, making me doubt my sexuality-“

“What?”

“-but I ain’t gonna let her show me up here, no sir.” Millie vehemently swore. “I’m gonna show her who’s the best. Once and for all.”

X~X~X~X~X

The aspirants were all gathered around in the center of the arena while the observers took their seats. Cheers and showers of confetti were abundant in this place where the tournament would be held once every fifty years, a monumental occasion for all the Wrathians.

Millie kept glaring daggers at Drona, who kept mocking her with a smug grin. Oh, she’d piledrive that bitch into the ground if she wasn’t afraid of displeasing the great Sin. So she forced herself to look away and stare at the competition. Hmph, interestingly, the aspirants were all women this tournament, seems there wasn’t a single fella who made the cut this time.

The air in the area suddenly grew notably hotter, even for Wrath’s weather. And a tower of flame erupted.

The crowd went wild as from the flames emerged a draconic visage. His height was impossibly towering, so large that an imp of her size was barely the size of one of his fingers. His body was broad and outstandingly buff. Two wings unfolded, vanishing the flames and spanning the full width of the arena.

Cheers and reverence were given freely at the creator of their kind, the great Sin of Wrath, He Who Held the Second Throne of Hell, the Judge of the Damned, Mighty Satan himself.

The great dragon held out his hands and spoke, his voice a booming thunder that swiftly silenced the arena. "When I created impkind, I saw the need for loyal, driven people who would fulfill all the small yet essential work in Hell. I molded you from mud in the bowls of hell, and breathed life into you with my flames."

He waved his arms around the arena. "Small you may be, made to be dutiful. But over the ages, I've seen how true greatness can emerge from even the smallest demon in hell. It is that greatness, that strength, I seek to cultivate. That potential I seek to test."

He clenched his fist, and the aspirants stumbled as the ground beneath their feet broke off, levitating them in floating small islands as they stood before the great Sin's draconic visage.

"And that courage, I will reward." He smiled sharply. "Among the eight of you, ladies, I've felt the true song of wrath. Spirits wild and fiery, worthy of this Ring... but they've yet to be tempered."

He opened his hand again, and from his flames he forged goblets filled with liquid fire. Each goblet floated toward the chosen aspirants.

"This here is my gift! A mere droplet of my flames, my wrath, made manifest! It is in you I see the strength to endure my blessing. This crucible of the Wrathian Sun shall be the forge that shall turn you into weapons worthy of the legions. Throughout the following days, you shall face all manner of challenge, from the fiercest test of strength and endurance to the most bloodthirsty beast in Wrath. It is in you to decide if you are to rise into champions, or be cast down to the mud once more"

Millie stared at the cup filled with swirling golden liquid, heat and flames emanating from it in a hazy aura.

"This power is not given; it is earned. Even if you partake in it, my blessing will only manifest the more you act. The more you prove your will."

Each of the aspirants slowly took their own cup.

“The winner shall forever be known as one of the strongest impkind has to offer! Now feast!”
He raised his arms toward the sky. “Fight! Let us all celebrate what makes Wrath our Sin!”

One by one, they each drank.

“Be reborn, Daughters of Satan!”

Millie pulled the goblet to her lips, and fire poured down her throat.

X~X~X~X~X

Millie had never been one to do drugs. Or take performance boosters. The biggest highs she’s ever known were the thrills of the fight. And whenever she drank and/or ate her weight in sugar. So she had been very unprepared for Satan’s blessing of Wrath.

No rush of adrenaline, no invigorating fight, could even come close to comparing with the feeling of these liquid golden flames washing down her throat, and igniting her from within.

The power of Hell itself inside her stomach, churning like a hundred energy drinks and making her vibrate on the spot. Anointed by Satan himself, Millie would prove herself one of his champions.

And for that to happen, she had to prepare.

Great Satan had blessed Hell with the promise of gains. His workouts were legendary, his physique an inspiration to any Wrathian Imp with fire in their veins. Millie had tried, Hell knows she did, to achieve a physique worthy of the champions of old. But she never could.

Her body was a force of nature, strong, agile, and fast. But she never did manage to get it to reflect that. She remained smooth and slim no matter how many weights she lifted or how many laps she ran. It had always been a sore point for her (particularly whenever that bitch Drona showed off her biceps)

She’d seen pictures of the best warriors of wrath, imps who proved themselves in the Wrathian Sun games and were forever immortalized in legend. Like the great Vetrrix, an imp lady with the curves of a succubus and a body forged by Satan himself.

And the source of her power had been the great Sin's blessing.

She finally had the chance to be like her idols.

And so it was with that newfound determination that Millie hit the gym. The flames of Wrath would fuel her body to become an unstoppable weapon. She grinned with vigorous energy as she kept benching the bar, lowering until it reached her chest before straightening her arms, on and on until she felt her muscles go through that delicious burn.

The tournament village had plenty of gyms; Satan would place no less than five for those who traveled all the way to witness the games firsthand. If you came to see the best of impkind give it their all, you were expected to share in the spirit of the game and train as well. But the aspirants? Oh, they got the best stuff.

They would be staying at the aspirant's very own hotel, equipped with all the facilities they could need. It was no five-star hotel, Satan didn't want his aspirants to grow lazy and pampered, oh no, they would earn his gift.

Which Millie was more than fine with.

She could feel how the power of Wrath flowed through her veins, coursing like molten lava and flowing from the depths of her core to the tips of her fingers. Her skin shifted in red waves, giving previously toneless limbs a much desired and dreamt of definition. Shoulders rippled with the movement of her arms. Her forearms slowly widened as she gripped the bar, the weights clanking with each repetition, resulting in small, defined mounds of muscle becoming ever so slightly more prominent with each lift.

"You're lifting twice your usual weight," Moxxie muttered, impressed as he stood behind her, ready to spot her if needed. But Millie showed she clearly had no need.

"That's it?!" Millie took it as a challenge, because of course she did. "I feel I could lift three times that! Bring on the plates, hun!"

"How about you just finish with this set, honey?" He asked a touch nervously, afraid that his wife would take it too far. "You're already making a lot of progress after all."

Millie ended up placing the bar on the rack after a few more reps, huffing a long breath as Moxxie handed her a towel to dry off. “I am getting results already, aren’t I?” She grinned, flexing an arm. The bicep that rose in response wasn’t a tower mass of muscle (yet), but it was firm and very notable. A hard red fruit that she just knew would tempt her hubby to take a bite of. “Check out these gains!”

She stood up and proudly brandished the rest of her body to him. The red surface of her skin was carved with notable lines of definition, splitting her stomach into four large bags of hardened flesh. Her legs were a bit wider, denser. She could make a calf jump by arching her leg. But it was her upper body that filled her with pride; her shoulders were standing a bit further apart than before, giving room for her dorsal muscles to grow larger and more defined the longer she worked out. Her traps rose like small hills between her toned deltoids, and her chest stood out a bit firmer with a faint line manifesting down the middle, stretching even further up than her cleavage line.

“You look amazing, honey!” Moxxie praised with that dorky and very adorable look of utter adoration he always gave her. “You’re even getting taller, I think. At this rate, you’ll be much taller than me.”

“Oho? That some eagerness in your voice, I hear?” She drawled with a seductive twang in her voice, accompanied by a husky grin. “Wanna see me get all big and strong?”

“I would certainly not mind if my lady goes all muscle mommy on me,” He said with a purr.

“Just you wait,” She said a bit gutturally. “I’m gonna make you look like a bug next to me~.”

“He’s gonna have to wait for years.” Her mood and horniness plummeted when she heard Drona’s voice. “Only way you could get a decent bulk going.”

“Okay, you know what?” Millie sharply turned around to face her rival. “You can fuuuuuuuck...” Her voice trailed off as she stared at the state Drona was in.

Holy smokes, she was even bigger than her by a wide margin. Her arms were large and corded, biceps looked like stuffed baseballs wrapped under tight skin, her shoulders stood out prominently as lats rose at the sides of her thorax. Her abs were shredded, a potent and highly defined six-pack. To say nothing of the state of her legs, good grief, did she have cables under her thighs or something?

“Yup,” Drona chuckled, flicking the braided ponytail over her shoulder and striking a bicep flex fluidly. “That’s the appropriate response to greatness.”

“How the fuck did you get so big already?!” Millie cried out in disbelief. “We took the Wrath at the same time!”

“Well, I dunno what to tell you, hon.” Drona’s grin was all teeth. “Guess some of us have more potential.” She walked up to the smaller woman, leaning very close. “I could share some training tips with you if you ask nicely~.”

Millie growled. “Rather eat mud.”

“Suit yourself. But if your husband wants to know what a real muscle mommy is like, my door is open.” She walked away, making sure they’d stare at her muscular glutes. “Or you can go first while he watches, whichever you prefer.”

Moxxie watched with concern as his wife’s torso inflated and deflated with rapid breaths, each exhale carrying enough heat to boil water, while one eye dangerously twitched. Her hands coiling into shaking fists, popping her knuckles from the pressure.

She stomped toward the squat bar and loaded multiple plates on each side. Moxxie quickly approached her, raising a hand. “Millie, careful you-!”

“Am not gonna beat her if I play it safe.” She growled, squatting under the bar and grabbing it tightly. Her heave came accompanied by a fierce grunt as she raised it from the rack, making the plates clank against each other. Her quads quivered as she began pushing herself up and down with a slow yet steady rhythm. “Gonna be the biggest. Have to be the strongest”

With each rep, it was like her muscles came alive. Pushing in every direction, filling with wrathful power. Faint veins spread across the surface like roads on a topographical map, dancing asymmetrically over the mounds of her arms and the swiftly bulging cords of her legs. Her body responded to her will, her anger, making her muscles expand rapidly. Her arms surged with larger mass, popping both her biceps and triceps with strained definition. Her grip tightened so much she was slowly denting the bar over her shoulders, which inflated as the lines of definition began caving inwards on the flesh.

Moxxie watched in awe as his wife grew right before his eyes, expanding in width and height as her body transformed itself in response to the challenge and her determination. Going from a fitness athlete to a small bodybuilder. Her sports bra and shorts tightened so much that a few threads ripped in response to accommodate the growing bulk. The cuffs of her shorts opened at the sides as the thighs insisted on their expansion, pushing the fabric tighter still and forcing it to recede until the shorts looked like briefs. The straps of her bra thinned, the cleavage lowered, revealing more and more of her thickening pectorals.

“Gonna win,” Millie swore to herself. “Have to show that hot bitch... I’m made of pure Wrath”

X~X~X~X~X

Bull wrangling was a time-honored wrathian sport. Millie had saddled and tamed more than her fair share of bulls in her day. Fighting against the things until they were finally subdued, holding on for dear life as it trashed about, trying not to fall and be crushed under their hooves. One often felt most alive when one's life was on the line. Wrath bulls were no joke.

Wrathian Sun Tournament bull wrangling? Whole different animal.

Almost literally, as the bulls summoned for the competition were on an entirely new level.

Wrath bulls were these raging things with huge humped backs and horns as long as a small imp. Their hooves could scorch the ground when they ground angry, their strength was no small feat either, able to pierce through walls like they were made of styrofoam.

These bulls, however? Oh boy, Millie was as nervous as she was excited.

The bulls gathered for the tournament were enormous, hulking things. Twice the size of a truck. Three times stronger than a regular bull. And at least five times the rage. Their bodies were huge and bulky; the hooves looked a bit tiny by comparison, but they could still crack the ground with their stomps. Their heads were skull-like, almost gaunt, presenting a terrifying visage, along with those large and thick horns that couldn't just pierce through an imp, but tear them in half. Their red eyes glowed balefully, and their roars were filled with fire.

The challenge was wrangling those things.

And with Satan watching, they wouldn't dare disappoint him.

Millie watched as her fellow competitors danced around the bulls; their bodies were forged with varying levels of musculature, some as fit as track stars and swimmers, others as muscular as bodybuilders. Drona was in the latter category...

But so was she.

Her intensified training, combined with her prodigious and dazzling amount of willpower to show up Drona, had granted her a body worthy of entering the local bodybuilding competitions of her hometown. Beautifully carved and professionally developed.

With the strength in her limbs, she'd take down this challenge. She couldn't afford anything else with her hubby watching.

The bulls made the ground tremble like a small earthquake as they stomped all over the terrain, driven to a frenzy by the noise, the crowds, and each other's agitation. They had been handed ropes of the strongest material in hell to wrangle and tame the beasts. How they went about it would be up to them.

Millie watched as one of the aspirants got flung into the wall of the giant colosseum, creating a spiderweb of cracks around her figure. The massive bulls were no joke; that one had done that to her just by trashing about.

Drona deftly dodged her bull, throwing the rope around one of its legs before going to the next, sliding underneath the beast's enormous body, dodging a while kick, and wrapping the rope around the opposite hind leg. The bull bellowed as it lost its balance and tumbled to the ground, but even then, it kept fighting. Drona jumped over its massive body and extended the rope all the way to one of its large horns, keeping the beast secured as it hopelessly kept kicking with its two free legs without any effort. Fire spewed from its mouth in anger, which slowly died down as the beast realized there was no escape from this. Her rival stood atop the monster, raising her arms in triumph to the cheers of the crowd, and flexing her biceps in a display of superiority.

The way she smiled at the attention and praise made Millie burn up inside with barely contained anger. Oh, she'd show her...

She'd give Satan a show.

Her bull charged at her, making the ground quake under its hooves, but Millie did not lose her balance. She whipped out the rope and got ready, waiting until the very last moment. She could feel the beast's fiery breath expel heat far enough that it hit her face like a strong summer gust.

Then, her legs coiled and she jumped with such strength she leapt over the bull's full body, throwing the rope just in time to wrap it around its large horns.

When Millie landed, she wasted no time and pulled. "HHNNGG!" She growled through clenched teeth, digging her hooves on the ground and carving small trenches as the beast's massive strength pulled her as well. It thrashed and jumped, fighting back against her reins. Millie's arms flexed mightily, the biceps swelled, and veins rose to the surface in a display of strength and effort. Her upper body strained beyond even her most challenging workouts, making it slowly swell as the Wrath in her ignited.

She wouldn't lose. She wouldn't lose. She wouldn't lose.

Millie let out a wild roar as she pulled with all her strength. The bull cried out as its head was dragged with such strength that the rest of its body followed suit, plummeting to the ground. A cloud of dust rose with the impact. The imp assassin swiftly dashed in, squinting her eyes as she moved through the dust, and quickly wrapped the rope around each of the beast's legs.

She stood next to the beast, glaring at her with immense fury and fire in its breath, and she merely patted its gaunt cheek. "Good boy."

The cheers of the crowd, the knowledge that her strength had been acknowledged... it was sweeter than any fruit. More intoxicating than any alcohol.

And Millie relished it.

She brought down her arms into a powerful, muscular, aimed directly at the crowd, and her husband in particular, who kept shouting her praises.

Satan himself clapped approvingly at the display of tenacity and might.

The pride she felt in that moment was only slightly more delicious when she sent Drona a smug grin, and her rival's usual sneer dropped into a snarl of spite and jealousy.

Yes... She could get used to this.

X~X~X~X~X

Post-event parties were a riot. The village streets became something akin to an open fair or carnival, filled with vendors and games. Imps walked about every corner of the town, enjoying the festivities and attractions set up by all the visitors. Competitors were highly acclaimed celebrities during these times; it wasn't surprising to see them surrounded by adoring fans, acting as the heart of the party. Displays of strength and basking in the praise of imps who looked up to them as icons of their kind were quite common, even if they hadn't performed well in the event.

To be chosen at all set you apart from the rest; that you were participating in these games, that you were blessed by Satan himself, gave you quite the rep.

The ladies in question were scattered around town, each celebrating in their own way. Some even wrestled openly in crudely and hastily made arenas, engaging in friendly (and sometimes unfriendly) bouts of competition outside the main events. Many bets were made during official and impromptu sports. Others merely flexed their muscles in a show of wrathian grit and participated in strength challenges against multiple imps at the same time.

Any other day, Millie would have loved to take part in the festivities. She absolutely lived for such things.

But tonight, though? Tonight she wanted to have a proper post-victory celebration.

She had come out of the event all sweaty and high on adrenaline. The cheers of the crowd had invigorated her in ways she never knew possible.

The result was her getting really, really, horny.

Her hubby was in for one wild night~.

She stood in front of the bed, with Moxxie sitting against the bedpost, his back lying against a pile of pillows. The eagerness in his grin was matched only by the tent pitching under the covers. Millie could already savor him, but she'd take her time.

"Ever done it with a grand champion before, sugah?" She muttered huskily.

"I have not, ma'am." Moxxie replied with the same level of arousal, getting into this bit of 'roleplaying'.

She slowly undid the knot on her bathrobe. "Been with classy girls all your life, huh?"

"Oh, I'd say I'm into the adventurous type too."

"How about some good ol' tough" The bathrobe opened as she pushed one muscular leg out, flexing her thigh and making the cords of muscle jump out, "fit and big." She opened the robe further, displaying the rows of shredded abdominals, "wrath girls?" Her breasts were next, supported by a tantalizingly detailed black bra. She wasn't ashamed to admit she loved how huge her knockers had gotten; they were half the size of her head.

Moxxie licked his lips. "I've been with some buff guys before. A strong lady like you, miss? I haven't had the pleasure"

Millie's grin stretched. "Oh, you will..." She shuffled off the rest of her robe, unveiling ruby red shoulders the size of basketballs; "You. Will"

She let the robe fall to the floor, revealing her full muscular glory. Millie had never felt this strong before, this sexy. Her body was a work of art, muscle power and female beauty wrapped together into one drop-dead gorgeous package. Her legs were brimming with thick muscles. Hips, abdomen, and lats undulated in curvy waves, contrasting the sharp definition of her muscles. The bra was there for adornment more than anything, as her breasts were supported by strong pectorals that had at least one inch of thickness, turning them into slabs of beef. Millie rolled her shoulders, idly flexing them and making forearm groups ripple and biceps jump with a clench of her fists.

Moxxie's smile became crooked, desperate. His cock throbbed under the blankets. "If I may be so bold, you're a prime piece of wrath beef."

Her chest rumbled with aroused laughter. "You're one smooth talker..." Millie raised her arms and flexed them imperiously, spreading her legs a bit to widen her stance. Her biceps bulged, and triceps stretched, veins gorged themselves with burning strength as they stood over the surface of her red skin. "You like how big I've gotten? How strong I've become?" She grunted as she shifted her pose, placing her arms behind her head and crunching her abs hard. "I can break you in half."

"Honey, you already could before all this." He pointed out, salivating as he stared at the enormous muscles of his wife. "Now you'd just look even better doing it."

A hungry chuckle escaped her lips, and Millie turned around to display her immense back. She heard him moan in delight at the sight of those vast stretches of mass, carved to perfection with crevices of definition. Hill-like traps rose, lats flared widely as her back expanded when she placed her fists on her hips. Her tail playfully swayed over granite-like glutes, and the hamstrings behind her legs rippled like high-tension cables moving under the skin.

"You ain't seen nothing yet." She grunted, putting more strength into her flex, willing her body to grow more. "Nobody's seen nothing yet," Millie growled, her bra and panties strained, cutting into the skin as the flesh ever so slowly expanded. "Can still grow... so much!"

Snap! Snap!

Her underwear tore and helplessly fluttered to the ground. Millie turned around once more, now fully naked, and Moxxie moaned as he pumped his erection.

She was not about to let him finish, not without feeling him first. She climbed over the bed, making it groan under her weight, and removed the blankets to show her favorite toy all prepped up for her.

She slammed her hands on the wall behind the bed, digging her fingers into the material. Millie grinned hungrily at her husband as she positioned her waist above his, trapping his smaller body between her ample legs.

With a swift downward thrust, Millie gasped as she impaled herself on his length. Moxxie grunted in pleasure as his wife surrounded him. With how tightly her inner walls clenched around him, and how much wider and taller than him she had become, obscuring him under her shadow.

“Mmm, yeah!” Millie grunted as she bounced up and down his waist. “Feel me, touch me,” She commanded. And Moxxie desperately reached out to touch everything he could with his hands, grasping the strong glutes of her derriere, grazing the shredded rows of abdominals, before playing with her breasts and her bullet-hard nipples. “Oh fuck, that’s it, that’s it.” She closed her eyes in concentration, her hips slamming into him with full force.

“Y-You’re so buff!” Moxxie grunted as each thrust of her hips sent him further into frenzy. “So fucking hard everywhere...”

“Mmmm!” Millie bit her lip as she felt him throb inside her. “I’m gonna win everything, gonna show everyone I’m the strongest.” She growled, her expression shifting into a furious sneer. “Gonna beat Drona, gonna beat her ass so hard!”

“S-So hard!” Moxxie moaned as his member pierced deeper into her depths. “S-She’s got nothing on you!”

The thought of Millie finally settling the score with her rival brought her ever closer to climax. “Yeeees, I’m gonna make her beg. G-Gonna fuck her!”

“W-What?”

“Said I’m gonna fuck her up!” Millie shouted, redoubling her efforts and descending upon Moxxie’s hips with all the force of a jackhammer. “G-Gonna... make her...!”

Her ramblings descended into an incoherent pleasure-filled scream, unleashing a deluge of liquid pleasure upon her husband’s cock, resulting in a chain reaction that led to Moxxie shooting his load inside her at long last. The pleasure was excruciating, overwhelming. It struck their bodies like a bolt of lightning, making all their nerves come alive with a deluge of ecstasy as their orgasms ravaged their bodies.

“Holy... shit,” Millie panted, a crooked smile forming on her lips as her chest rose and fell. “Was that the best fuck we ever had?”

Moxxie merely let out a drunken mumble.

X~X~X~X~X

After giving her hubby the ride of his life, Millie had lain down at his side and cuddled him in her muscular embrace, feeling him fall asleep. She enjoyed the way his cute face fell into slumber, completely drained by their amorous activities.

Ohhh, he was such a cutie.

However, it had not been enough for Millie. Oh, don't get her wrong, Moxxie delivered like always! But she still had far too much energy to burn out. Satan's Wrath was filling her after all, and she was still too pumped after today's victory. So once she was sure he was fast asleep, she snuck out of their embrace, gave herself a quick shower, and went to the hotel's gym.

Millie began working on her curls, lifting the dumbbells rhythmically with a steady rhythm. Her abs clenched and flared out with each deep breath; she particularly enjoyed the way her biceps swelled with size, rising with round peaks of strength as the veins snaked their way across the surface.

She was a premium piece of wrath beef, as Moxxie had said. Millie giggled perversely, already wanting to get bigger to make his jaw drop to the floor. She really loved how much into her muscles he was; it opened up a whole new kink and world of pleasures for the two. She'd have him worship her properly next time, run his hands across her muscular landscape, leave a wet trail with his mouth as he savored each line of definition and prodded into her muscles.

Millie shuddered, her nipples tented under the black sports bra. Ohhhh, she was getting horny just imagining it.

"Wasn't enough to screw your hubby's brains out, huh?"

Suddenly, her good mood ended.

Millie's expression dropped with annoyance as she watched Drona walk into the gym, wearing a dark purple set of sports bra and shorts. Her body was... much as it pained her to admit it, similarly muscular to hers. Drona had taken Satan's Wrath very well, too, to the point it became a very evenly matched competition to see who could outgrow the other. But Millie refused to give up.

She began doing her curls faster. "Ain't going to the parties?"

"How can I celebrate when my rival showed me up today?" Drona growled, baring her teeth a little. She walked up to a very heavy-looking barbell and picked it up. Her hands clenched around the metallic surface as she lifted it with a heave and began curling as well. Millie tried not to stare too much at the way her muscles began pumping. "Any guy I fucked, any girl who licked my cooch, I was still thinking about today..."

"Awww you needed to think about me to get going?" Millie grinned mockingly at her, redoubling her efforts. "That's flattering."

Steam flared from her nostrils. "You've always been a pest, Millie. But now you graduated to absolute annoyance. I ain't gonna let you, or any of these wannabe champions, show me up in any way"

"Too bad," Millie shrugged. "'Cause I already did. Your words."

"Hng!" She grunted, biceps blasting with the curls. "I will give credit where it's due. You really surprised me there... you might be a worthier opponent than I thought. Because the truth, Millie." Drona grinned savagely. "Thinking of you always motivated me. I would think of your dumb fucking face, with that fucking cute tooth gap, and how much I wanted to break you."

Millie's muscles began pumping larger and harder. "Right back at ya, sugah. Having you as my competition is really doing wonders for my spirit. I keep thinking back on that face you made when everyone clapped for me, and it's made me so wet I had to fuck Moxxie like there was no tomorrow."

Drona growled even as she smiled. "Oh yeah, I could feel the walls shake with the ride you gave him. Bravo, Millie. All the years of breaking horses taught you a thing or two. But we all know what really got his engine revving, it was his buff wife... It was the sight of me, and how much I've been dominating the games. He finally got to see what a real woman looks like when I first grew these beauties." She leaned in and puckered her lips, kissing her bicep at the moment of their rise.

Millie snarled, veins crawling from wrist to shoulder as they popped with rage.

"And you said yourself, you got wet thinking of me."

Huh. Now this was an interesting feeling.

Millie knew anger. She was a Wrath imp after all, the sin was engraved upon her very soul. Rage came naturally to her, but she had long since mastered it; she knew when and how to let it loose. Wielding it like a finely honed blade, precise and deadly. Or unleashed like an explosion or a burning inferno that left no survivors.

Millie would admit she could fly off the handle at times, letting her feelings get the better of her. And, as Moxxie would often say, her rage was a breathtaking sight that carved a path of destruction. Broken bodies, torn-up buildings, and blood and viscera splattered everywhere. It all became a haze, letting her body move on pure instinct alone as the world became a blur of motion and red.

This time, however?

Oh boy, this was new.

Millie was pissed. Beyond pissed. She doubted she could find the right word to properly express how angry she was at the moment. Yet somehow it had the opposite effect of her usual anger-induced rampages. Instead of the world becoming a blur, she felt like she was... hyperfocused. Like she was suddenly completely aware of her surroundings, down to the last detail. The smell of sweat became more prominent; her eyes could perceive even the tiny cracks on the wall.

And Drona, her rival, Millie could see the barest inch of definition deepening with the flex of her arms. How her stomach muscles coiled with each deep breath, the way tendons stood out in her neck. How her body had been honed into a perfect weapon long before Satan blessed her.

...And hell-damn it all, Millie knew it very well. Much as she loathed to admit it. Drona was an outstanding fighter. She presented a summit she sought to surpass. Just knowing her old rival was still around motivated her to keep growing stronger.

And now, in the middle of this focus-induced rage, aware that Drona might end up becoming even stronger... It motivated her.

Millie grinned, a feral gesture. Almost an animal bearing their teeth as a sign of aggression. She would not let Drona win. She would grow bigger, stronger, right in front of her. She'd let her know she'd never be beneath her.

Millie's body burned with hellfire. Her veins throbbed even harder, becoming hoses that pumped magma-hot blood through them. Their swelling was accompanied by a sound like leather stretching. Millie felt her muscles tighten. The flesh palpitated as it grew thicker, denser, bigger.

"...Hehe," She giggled, a touch deranged. But she couldn't help it; her rage was making her feel so good. The way it fueled her body's growth tingled at her sex and pleased her. The weight no longer did anything for her, so she threw them away. Instead, she brought down her arms into a powerful, most muscular pose and let the muscles surge. Her biceps and triceps thickened, making her arms widen spectacularly. Shoulders became etched with deep definition, traps rose like mountains framing her neck, and casually snapped the straps of her bra.

Her back spread into a mountain range, splitting her top in two. The fabric suffered the same fate on the front due to her thick pectorals and breasts. Millie's legs, short compared to the rest of her, even as her body's height increased, bloomed with corded musculature.

She growled as she flexed her body in open defiance of Drona.

Her rival stared at her with wide eyes, the yellow in them almost burning like candles... and grinned as well. It was like the sight of Millie's growing form triggered something inside her, making her body throb and expand in response.

She bent the bar into a metallic pretzel and let it fall to the floor. She casually kicked it away with powerful legs. She flexed her arms at the waist and thrust her chest out, the action causing her top to explode like confetti. The way her naked breasts bounced in the open night air was tantalizing; her body was covered in sweat, pooling in the crevices of her definition.

What a beautiful sight she was, this woman Millie loathed.

The two stood in front of the other, their bodies comparable in girth and tone. Both of them brimmed with unrivaled power. The air looked like it could ignite any second now as the tension between the two reached a critical point.

What followed next could be described as an act of passionate violence.

They threw themselves at each other's arms, seeking to wrestle the other into submission. Their mighty bodies ground together, rubbing muscle against muscle. The friction in the skin burned so good, and the way their naked breasts came into contact created bolts of electric pleasure that struck their spines.

Their bodies rolled around on the floor, constantly flipping in this battle for dominance as they each tried to subdue the other with a powerful hold. Their forms gyrated against the other, their grunts of anger and effort shifting into pleasure and desperation.

Millie didn't know at which point the two began fucking. But here they were.

Even in this, the two were competing.

Millie grunted, eyes rolling back as she felt Drona's hips slam against her rear, holding her derriere so tightly her fingers would leave a mark. "Take it...!" Drona growled in ecstasy. "Say my name!"

"No," Millie let out a throaty sound, grabbing her arm and pushing her to the floor. She grabbed her legs open as she positioned herself between them. Millie grabbed her wrists tightly and slammed her sex against Drona, letting out a drunken moan of pleasure as her hips crashed into hers with ferocity. "Y-You... say mine!"

Amidst a string of profanities and screams of defiance, they would end up screaming each other's names.