

“Something slow, and soft.” You said. Your partner had just asked what sort of trance you wanted, and after the day you had had, slow and gentle was exactly what you needed.

Your partner’s smile was reassuring. They gestured to the seat next to them on the sofa.

“Okay honey, we can do slow, and soft.” They said, wrapping you in their arms as you sat next to them. Their warmth was reassuring, and you cuddled into them. “Just breathe deeply for me. Focus on my voice. You don’t need to think right now. I’ve got you.”

Their voice was soft, and comforting. You felt safe, encircled by their presence. You took a deep breath, in time with them. “That’s it. Breathe deep, and let your mind go. You don’t have anywhere to be, except right here, with me. Close your eyes for me.”

You obeyed, eyes slipping shut as you let their voice trickle gently into your mind. “There you go. So peaceful, and letting each moment that passes quieten your mind. No thinking. Just sinking softly and sweetly into trance for me.” Your thoughts were slowing, stopping.

“It’s so easy to relax like this, with me. It’s so simple to give in to these nice, warm feelings, wrapping around your body and mind. Making you feel calm, and contented. Completely at ease. Just letting yourself zone out. Safe, and comfortable in my arms.”

Their words were so nice to listen to, and it all left you feeling so very peaceful. “That’s it, plaything. Just feel these nice, gentle feelings, filling up your body and mind. You deserve to feel warm, and comfortable, and relaxed. Feel my will taking over responsibility for a while.”

You let out a soft murmur of contentment as they spoke. They paused for a moment, before saying. “Give me a colour, pet.”

“Green.” You said, responding to the check in automatically. You were safe, you were secure. You wanted more of this. They held you tighter for a moment, before continuing.

#erotichypnosis #microfiction #erotica #hypnoticinduction #hypnoticcouple #softness