

You could feel something curling around your mind. The soft, shimmering chain of their words sent shivers up your spine. You leant into the feeling, as it enveloped you. The tones of their voice vibrated through your brain, scattering your thoughts.

It was obedience. The need to give in. The need to submit. That was what had curled around your mind. And they were using it effortlessly, to pull you deeper into their control. You couldn't resist. You didn't want to resist. Why would you? When each word they said felt so good.

And as you were bound up tight in submissive bliss by their words, they began to trace their fingers over your bare skin. Each touch felt like heaven. Like liquid bliss being fed into your veins. But then they pulled back, leaving you feeling cold, and you knew...

You knew in that instant, that you'd do anything to feel their warmth again. They tied your obedience to that warmth, that desire. Their words flitted so effortlessly around your hypnotised, obedient mind. And they had you. They had you right where they wanted you.

#erotichypnosis #microfiction #erotica #obedience #addiction #brainwashing