

Pg 1

Frost stands tall against Raiden, ready to fight. Her robotic body has been recently upgraded, so she feels more than ready to face the thunder god.

Raiden: You have potential Frost. Why waste it serving the likes of Kronika?

Frost: Is that a joke? The only thing I'm wasting here is you old man. Look around you, see the Cyber Lin Kuei attacking your fleet? They are under my command. Thanks to Kronika I have become their new Grandmaster.

Second verse, same as the first. Only this time she's officially entered combat mode! Her eyes are glowing blue and those weird forearm panels open up, they glow the same icy color.

Raiden: Then you must forgive me, because I fear your reign as Grandmaster is about to be short-lived.

Frost: Ha! Only a fool would underestimate me now. Prepare to SHATTER!

FIGHT!

Smash cut to the fight's aftermath, and Frost got demolished by Raiden. Her breast (closest to the viewer) is damaged; the blue-green wires that connected it to her chassis were now torn, causing the thing to sag a bit. That was his first power pack, her secondary one is still attached but the black latex is scratched off and is at 12% charge, not nearly enough to get up and fight especially with the rest of her body damaged. Both arms are torn off by the elbow, a few wires dangle from the stump. Armor is scratched and dented, mask has been ripped off (she doesn't have ears btw she looks like robocop without his helmet) she's defeated, tired, but mostly just pissed. Her newly augmented body may have been stronger than any normal man's, but Raiden is no mere man, she knew that.

R: You were saying?

F: ...I fucking ha-ha-hate youuu.

Pg 4

R: It's over Frost, now call off your forces

Raiden left her, Frost however has been stuttering the same word for a while saying “you” over and over, but a few minutes later she boots up again..

She slows down, her last battery finally runs out of power leaving her as a helpless hunk of junk. Let's hope someone can repair her.
