

Irresistible. Irrevocable. Their words were seeping into your mind. You couldn't begin to think of how to resist. Not that you would want to. "Just keep sinking, pet. You don't need to worry about anything right now. You just need to give in to me. You just need to obey."

Your eyes rolled slightly as their hands slid down your chest. Their touch felt incredible. You let out a soft moan as a nail dug in slightly. The pain juxtaposing the soft, sleepy feelings flooding your mind. "Such a good pet. You want more of this, don't you? Say yes."

"Y-yes." The words left your lips without a conscious thought, and you heard them chuckle.

"That's it. Such a good, obedient little pet for me." They lifted one of their hands, and placed a finger on your forehead. "I'm going to press down, in a moment." They said.

The finger brushed gently against you. "When I do, I want you to feel my finger entering your mind. Digging deeper, and deeper with every second. Burrowing to the core of your brain." With that, they pressed. You gasped, shuddering at the sensation.

It wasn't painful. But it was intense. Like they were pushing in between the hemispheres of your brain. Your eyes rolled again. Your mind felt like it was being switched off. You felt their finger in your brain, making changes. They laughed, and paused the pressure.

"Okay, now I'm inside... Let me just..." They pressed again. "Remove that free-will." A part of you shut down. Your thoughts of your needs disappeared. "And now let's enlarge that obedience." They relieved the pressure. And you felt another part of you flourish.

Your obedience filled the empty space where your free-will had been. They pulled their finger away from your forehead. You could feel yourself drooling. They laughed. "You look so pathetic like this. Just a plaything for me to use. But it's okay. I like you like this."
