

Last night was so nice....

If....

Howie had asked....

I never experienced something like that with anyone else before...

Spending the whole night kissing and touching and getting to know each other, without it leading to anything more.

I might have....

let him do a little more....

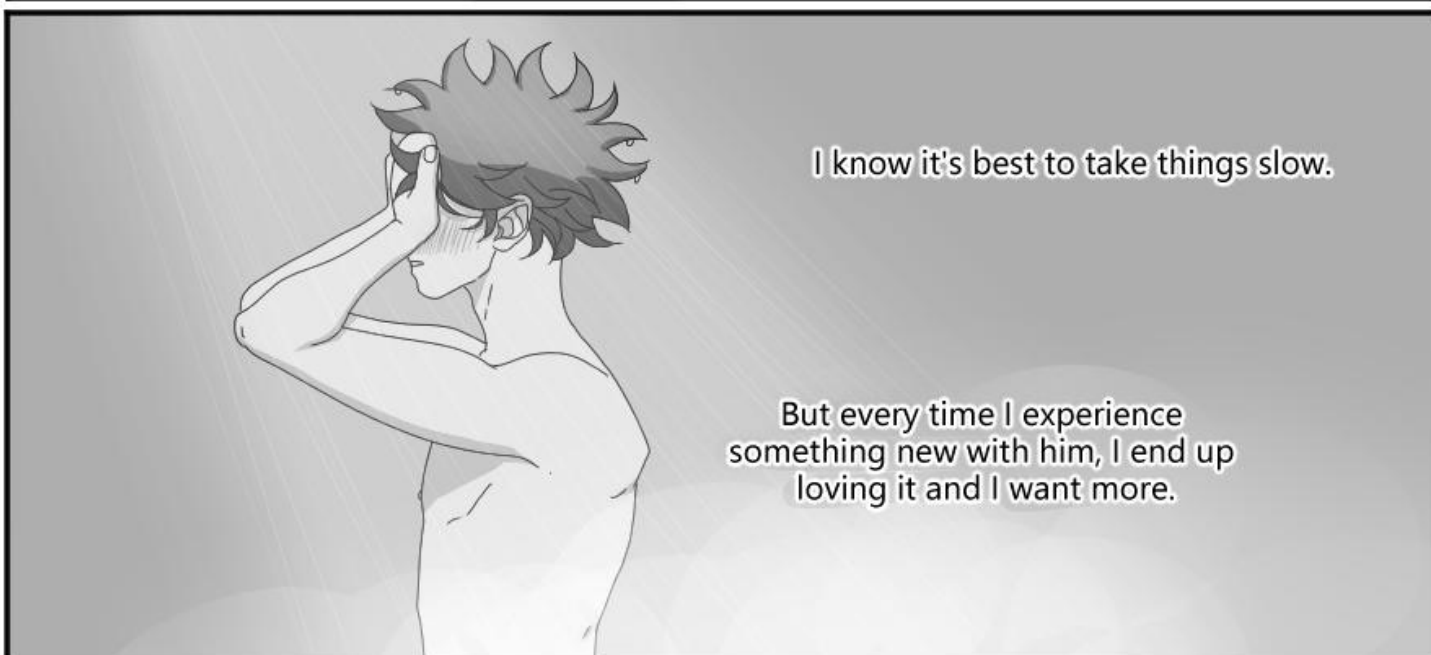

It felt.... special....

Am I crazy?!

That's way too fast, isn't it?

I know it's best to take things slow.

But every time I experience something new with him, I end up loving it and I want more.

