

"You seem to be having trouble remembering the lessons I give you, pet." Your hypnotist said, slowly strolling around you, naked in the seat. "So I've designed something to help them sink in..." They gestured above you, and reached up over your head, pulling something downwards.

"First, we have this headset, which is going to beam everything I want directly into your brain." They said, grabbing a VR headset, and slipping it over your head. Now all you could see was a slowly spinning spiral. Your conditioned brain automatically began to slow down.

"Second, we have the straps." You felt them fastening you to the chair by your arms and legs. Cuffs wrapped around your limbs, holding you securely to the seat. "We wouldn't want you slipping out and hurting yourself, would we? No..." They squeezed your hand, gently.

You were lost in the spiral by this point, just letting their words float over you. "And next we've got the toy." You felt something on your sex, vibrating gently. A moan slipped from your lips as pleasure began to invade your mind. "That's right. Something to make you cum."

Your mind was empty of thought, full of desire. "And the last piece of this machine for you to care about are the headphones. When I put them on, you won't be able to hear anything outside. You'll be trapped with my voice, my images, and my pleasure."

You heard them laugh. "But that's okay. You're going to love it." They slipped the headphones over your ears. The world around you was gone. The only outside things you could feel were the seat, and the vibrations. And then their voice began to flow into your empty mind.

"This is lesson one. There will be more to follow. But this machine is designed to make sure that you don't cum until we're ready. Until I'm sure you've learned what I'm trying to teach you. There's so many sensors, measuring your pulse, your heart rate. The noises you're making."

The vibrator started to buzz more intensely. You knew you were moaning, but you couldn't really hear it. "And it's going to keep you on the edge. Until you're ready to absorb your teachings with an orgasm. This is going to help you learn so much pet. Now, let's begin..."

#erotichypnosis #microfiction #erotica #brainwashing #pleasure #hypnotech